THE GAZETTE.

SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 22, 1859.

COMMUNICATED. Now that the holidays are over, and things have somewhat settled down in the old track, I'll write vou another letter. I feel much encouraged to do so by seeing the one I sent you, a few weeks ago, in the paper. You may think what you please about it, but most people like to see their thoughts printed. Feb You would'nt have so many correspondents, but for that. And I am a little surprised that your Mushtown correspondent, who Mh. sent you a first-rate letter the other day. should propose to you to send him stamps to pay his postage, and to speak of him occasionally as your distinguished correspondent Apr from Mushtown. You might well afford to compliment him, but as to sending the stamps, I would'nt do it.

Encouragement is a great thing. Don't May 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 you find it so in your publishing business? I can well conceive how the addition of a hundred or two good subscribers, at the beginning of a new year, will help to polish an editorial, and give interest to your selections. It whets the edge wit, and makes one industrious. It has taken many a fellow success- J'ly fully through difficulties; and, on the other hand, for the want of it, many a one has been floored as flat as a pancake. I was talking after this fashion the other day to my old neighbor, Mr. Joseph Spotts-uncle Joe we call him-a kind-hearted old man as ever lived, but has'ut much of what the preachers call "this world's goods." Just the sort of a man to have a kind heart. In of the County Court for this County, commost cases, men who have rich purses have mences on Monday. We give the classificapoor hearts. I was remarking to him that tion of the Justices for each term during the the lack of encouragement, often really deserved, had kept many a man down, and so weakened his spirit, that he rarely had ener-You are right, said he, and I am a living William H. Fowle, W. T. Harper, and George H. proof of it. "When I was a young man, living on the other side of the mountains, I got it into my head that the way to get rich was to marry a fortune. But I was puzzled to Price. get a chance to make an effort in that way. for the rich girls were in one "circle," and I in another; and these circles in society, you know, don't mingle like the circles made on W. T. Harper, Robert G. Violett, and Robert the mill pond by throwing in a stone. Well, it was my business to attend to a threshing machine, and get out wheat for farmers around. (That word, machine, is the most abominable word in English.) I managed one fall to get to thresh a crop for a rich old gentleman-with about fifty thousand-with only one child-a daughter, named Sally .-She was pretty, too, and that's not common with rich girls, you know. We soon struck up an acquaintance. She treated me very kindly—talked to me every day about the wheat, and the weather, and all that; and ham, Wm. B. Price, Charles P. Shaw, and Thomas would send me peaches out to the stack yard. The fact is, I got to think I had made an impression on her. When I finished the wheat and was about to leave. I called her out ou the porch-sorter beckoned to her. It was just about sun down, and says I, Miss Sally, Smith. I am about to leave, but I want to ask you if I may come back to see you? Nary time; go; said she, and away she went. She did'nt encourage me the least in the world, and here I am. Now, if that girl had encouraged me as I wanted her to, what a different man I might have been. I often think of it."

Said I, uncle Jo, what do you mean by say ing the word machine is abominable? "Well, I'll tell you about that—it is Christmas times any how-and I never have told it to any body on this side the mountains. That word drove me over here. You see after my failure to get that fortune I did'nt go much among ladies-as the politicians say, I retired. But one day Jim Spikes, (we were raised together pretty much) come riding up to the house, and asked me to take a ride with him. Says I, what's up now? Come, catch old Snap, said he, and go with me down to Capt. Sprinkles-Miss Nancy has got home from school, and she plays the Piano charmingly. I hemed and hawedbut I went with him. Now says I, Jim, as we rode along, I don't feel much like going among ladies-I don't know them. That don't matter, talk up to 'em-that's the way to get along with girls; and if you think you can't talk stylish enough, talk nonsensemost of them like that best any how, said he. And after the preliminaries are over, you ask Miss Nancy to play for us. This happened about the time these consurned little whistles come about, the children called harmonicas, and that thing was in my head all the time. Well, I got along very well when Jim introduced me, and after talking about the weather and the roads, &c., says I, Miss Nancy let us have the pleasure of hearing a tune on your harmonica. I saw the outside of her face turning a little red, as she looked at me, saying at the same time, I thank you sir, its not a harmonica, its a piano. Jim put in a word or two to smoothe over my blunder, and she struck up old Rosin the Bow. Just at this time some ladies and gentlemen were coming in at the gate, and while Miss Nancy went out to meet them. says I, Jim, what's to be done about my calling that thing a harmonica? Why, said he, you must apologise, of course. Well, I'll try it, and if I fail to do it up right, I'll never go where there are ladies ugain. I soon began to hear harmonica whispered about, and a deal of running out and laughing. Just as I thought I had a good speech made up for my apology, I saw Jim look at his watch. He proposed we should ride. It ever a fellow was in a crisis I was now, I got my hat, and walked up to Miss Naneysays I, good bye Miss Nancy, I hope you won't think hard of me for calling your machine a harmonies. From that day to this I never could bear to hear the word machine. Without my knowing it, while I've been writing out these things, my wife has been looking over my shoulder reading it. The first I knew of it was the exclamation-Well, if I were to pretend to write any thing it should have more dignity about it than that! Go read Solomon, old lady, and you'll learn "there is a time for all things." OLD FOGY.

If the applica prefer, he can pay the full amount of the preming in cash, or by effecting a cash insurance for to years, the insured saves one eighth of the amon he would otherwise have to pay; or by becoming member, and giving a small premium note, the a sured saves nearly one half of the amount charge by Stock Companies, when insuring from ye year. This is the advantage resulting from combination of THE CASH AND MUTI PRINCIPLE. This Company commenced issuing Poli against loss or damage by fire, on the 16th March, 1854, since which time over five thousand seven hundred persons have insured and been members of the Company, and over thirty the sand dollars have been paid for losses. Have trebled our business during the past year, we grateful for the liberal patronage bestowed the Company thus far, and for its flattering pa pects of future usefulness. The Directors hand believe, that, by prudence, caution, and a rig system of economy, they will establish for Company a reputation for cheapness and salnot surpassed by any Company in the U. States All differences in settlement of losses, may determined by three disinterested arbitrators of a County where such loss happened, to be mutual chosen by the insured and the Company.
